Assalaamu Alaykum

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN CALL FOR INPUTS: DRAFT SA MUSLIM CHARTER

Inspired by the Medina Charter of the Noble Prophet Muhammad (S A W) and the need for establishing a charter for Muslims primarily as a basis for co-operation on issues of common concern and their integration into South African society, prompted organizations including the National Awqaf Foundation of South Africa (Awqaf SA), the United Ulama Council of South Africa (UUCSA), and the Muslim Lawyers Association (MLA) to prepare a Draft SA Muslim Charter for discussion and adoption by the Muslims of this country.

The preparation of a draft charter was assigned to several academics, professionals and Ulama. It is intended that the draft charter will be disseminated to the greatest possible number of Muslim organisations and individuals for their inputs, comments, and suggestions. These will then be considered and where appropriate, a revised version of the draft will be further disseminated. Various discussion meetings may also be held. It is hoped that a final SA Muslim Charter will be adopted by Muslims of South Africa at dates to be announced in various towns and cities across the country. The final charter will remain open for adoption by all that agree to abide by its terms.

You / your organization/ your Jamaa is cordially invited to submit inputs, comments, and/ or suggestions towards improving the Draft Charter by the due date to the following fax or email:

SECTION 1

FOREWORD TO THE DRAFT SA MUSLIM CHARTER:

Despite their diversity, Muslims of South Africa share common values and principles which are unknown to the majority of South Africans. This charter aims to outline the essential principles of Islam which will contribute to a better understanding of the Muslim community, as well as lay the foundation for its interaction with the broader South African society.

It is a historical fact that Muslims have contributed significantly to the development of South Africa. Today, they are to be found in every province and, indeed, in every city and town across the country. While their forebears were brought by the colonialists as migrant workers and political exiles, they now command a permanent presence here.

The Muslim presence in South Africa demands a framework of citizenship based on justice, equality of rights, and recognition of Muslims as a religious community in its own right. There is a need for greater co-operation amongst Muslims, other South African communities and, in line with developments in the African Union, between them and the rest of Africa.

The Muslims of South Africa undertake to work for peace and the general welfare of society and to engage in inter-cultural dialogue.

It is the above considerations that have led South African Muslims to formulate this charter.

THE DRAFT SOUTH AFRICAN MUSLIM CHARTER

PREAMBLE

Whereas the South African Muslim citizenry in democratic South Africa requires a framework of citizenship based on justice, equality of rights and recognition as a religious community as part of the landscape of this country, with deep historical roots, and as a community that contributed to the freedom anti-apartheid struggles and as a community that continues to contribute significantly to the development of this land and its people.

Furthermore there is a need for greater co-operation among South Africa's Muslims, and a desire for mutual recognition between the South African Muslim community and other South African communities and, in line with African Union's ideals and values, between the South African Muslim community, the rest of Africa, the Muslim world and international community in general.

And whereas South African Muslims have a responsibility to strive towards peaceful co-existence by working in the interest of the general welfare of the South African society and through active engagement in inter- and cross-cultural, ethnic and religious dialogue in the spirit of human fraternity.

75 Now it is proposed that a charter is an ideal mechanism to capture the vision and mission of the 76 Muslims of South Africa. This charter outlines the essential principles of Islam and seeks to contribute
77 towards a better understanding of the beliefs and practices of the Muslim community, as well as laying
78 the foundation for its positive interaction with the broader South African and global communities.
